COTTON IE VIRGINIA -For many years past sys the Richmond Enquirer, especially in ounties south of the James. Virginia farmers ave devoted small patches of land to the cultivation of cotton for their own consumption, it eing used generally for summer clothing for the blacks. Although the end of slavery relieves the farmers from the clothing and sustenance of so many dependants, the cultivation of this valuable material should by all means be suspended. It has always been produced in quartities entirely too small and should by no means be kept up to the full extent of been a remarkably fine one for cotton in this latitude. In Chesterfield alone some smallcrops were made, rivaling in quality any grown in North Carolina; and so favorable was the eason that every boll was saved. During the war cottons woven by hand were in extensive proud to wear it. SPRECH OF HON. J. J. LANDRUM ON THE BIMSELF. The amendment provides that all person who had been actively engaged in the rebellion should take an oath of allegiance to the United I offered an amendment to the Senate bill the time I offered it without argument, and without giving my reasons for it. I think that the repeal of this expatriation law without modification is all wrong. I think that the law should be repealed. I am as willing as any Senator upon the floor to extend to those that have been in the rebel army all the rights, privieres, and immunities that any citizen has, when hey comply with the same law to which all loyal citizens have heretofore done. I am not will-ing to make a distinction in favor of these who have been in arms against the Govgrument and against loyal men. The amerduent requires those who have never taken any constitutional oaul at all to take such an oath, recognizing, too, that they are willing to support the Constitution of the United States tried: John Coleman, discharged; Hiram Mitch ell, $10 fine and $500 for three months; H United States, and if ninety nine out of a hundred have taken an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and if ninety nine out of a hundred have taken the oath, why not require the one hundredth to do it? I would allow him to take it before any court of record, or at the election when he presents himself to vote. Mr. election when he presents himself to vote. Mr. Speaker, you have to take the constitutional oath before you can preside over this Senate. I took a constitutional oath before I could take my seat here. I don't think that these gentlemen, who have imbrued their bands in the blood of Federal soldiers, any better than you and myself. I am not for granting them exclusive privileges—ENCLUSIVE PRIVILEGES GIVEN TO TREASON; DEPRECIATING LOYALIY AND REMYATING TREA-

> Mr. Dudley asked leave to explain-I did not intend to say the amendment was uncon-situtional. I thought the act was, and should be repealed.

Mr. Landrum—I accept the explanation. sir. presume that we are all agreed in regard to hat but it does not matter whether we agree that but it does not matter whether we agree or do not. I am for its receal it we cannot modify it as proposed. I cannot see how some of my conservative friends can reconcile their position Now, sir, the Constitution has clainly defined the qualifications of voters. "Free white male citizens. Every man who has been a citizen of the United States, and been in this State two years, and in the county or district sixty days," is a voter by the Constitution of Kentneky. I recollect, sir, when my friend from Estill offered an amendment to the bill under consideration in the Senate, which provided that guerrillas should not vote. I believe that there was not a conservative member upon this floor who did not vote for the amendment. Cannot the guerrilla be a white man and a freeman? Can he not be a citizen? Can he not have seeded in the State two years and in the district sixty days? And yet these conservative gentlemen voted that he shall not have the privilege of voting. Now, under their view of the Constitution, how could they have est that vote? If you can make a law excludnext elections. You put into the hands of r opponents a two-edged sword that will de-y you. If I were a candidate I would want no er weapons than that would give before my stituents. I would go before the people and restore themselves in the estimation of those mer? Yes, they will go before these men, and, with tears-streaming from their eves, say, I was nonest, my lord. But I have done you a great wrong. I have done a great sin. Won't you let me reinstate myself in your estimation by winder cut, this laws from. the fear of invasion again drives her within stone walls. It seems to be a pretty well anthenticated fact that money has been pouring into the treasury of O'Mahony at the rate of at least one hundred thousand dollers a month. The great question of Bulwer Lytton recurs: "What will he do with it?"

The irrepressible George N. So says Sanders, and he adds that the Emperor demanded, as his remuneration for this costly expedition, the cession of Sonora, Sinaloa, and Lower California. Sanders declined to cede these States, upon which the Emperor retorted that he, in bis turn, would decline recognizing Sanders, and the two adventurous gentlemen parted in high dudgeon. Louis Napoleon was so much accustomed during his residence in London to resociate with all sorts of loafers that the narralive of Sanders is not more incredible than the Chevalier Wykoff's stories of interviews with his Majesty. tlemen the military will interfere. How can the military interfere with such a proceeding as that? If a man takes the oath before a clerk of a court or judge of an election, his right to vote is clear and conclusive, and the military cannot interpose and say, you have not taken cannot interpose and say, you have not taken the oath—you are not a voter.

Some gentleman objects to this carrying around the certificate in his pocket. My amend went obviates that, for if he has not taken the oath he may offer to do it at the polls, and is a penalty affixed for his refusal. I will tell on how the military can interfere. If the bill, is passed as reported from the House, when a man presents himself at the polls the military will say, You have taken no oath of loyalty and you have not been pardoned. You have taken no oath to support the Constitution of the United States or this State, therefore you are not a citizen and cannot vote. A man has a right to expatriate himself. We have a law upon our statute book which defines the conditions upon which a citizen may expatriate himself. We have a law upon our statute book which defines the conditions upon which a citizen may expatriate himself. The military may then interfere and say that the statute laws allow you to expatriate ourself, and you have gone off and have never when the cath of allegiance. The terms of this very bill give the military a right to interfere. The judges of the election have a right to qui ble and reject votes. The judges of election can say you have never taken the oath, therefore you are no citizen of the State. refere you are no citizen of the State, as gentlemen who are so anxious to give him ins gentlemen who are so anxious to give him pright to vote may be depriving him of it by the me stre. I have improved the bill so that 's entirely free from these objections. Citi-tive of Virginia do not have the right to vote ithout they have been pardoned and taken the oath of numesty. I only propose to ask the same, and I don't see anything unjust or legal in it. One word upon conservatism. I am a conservative, and have been so. I have been for maintaining the Constitution and laws without an if or but. I am for the Constitution unconditionally. I would say to my conservative friends you must not run headlong and in hot beste in your sympathy for the men who have been in the Confederate army. It is not just nor liberal to them to let them come without bes the man who has taken no oath? Is he not subject to a heavy penalty in consequence of not having renewed his allegiance to the Government. When he has once taken the oath he has relieved himself from the ban of the military authorities. I place him in a better condition than the repeal of the bill does. He may claim to be loyal. I was going to remark that the long stride we are taking in repealing this law without reserve, if we go too far with the thing, and show too much anxiety to throw ourselves into sympathy with these men—into their embrace—mark what I tell you, the conservative party will be swept from the face of the earth before another election rolls around. What did the Democratic party do in Ohio? They nominsted Vallandigham, a man notoriopely disloyal, a man at the head of the Knights

Georgie;

While in Augusta the other day I saw Alexandre H. Stephens—s little old man with most marvelous eye—looking not so much likes a human being as like a character from one of Dickens's stories. Yet if Georgians reverence any body it is Mr. Stephens, and there isn't the least question but that his presence in the State is beneficial in the best sense. He resists all importunities to make a public speech, but I sam told that he converses freely with all who call upon him, and that he arges everybody to accept the issue of the war in a most cheerful and liberal spirit. While in Columbus two weeks ago I was told of a letter he wrote to a friend in that city immediately after the fragous. Hampton Roads conference. I tried in every way to get a sight of it, but without success. The gentleman who told ree of it had read it, and used these words in respect thereto: "He said that peace could be obtained on terms not humilating to the South, and that it ought to be mode at once, but Mr. Davis and his principal advisers did not want peace."

Mr. Helm—I have listened to the gentleman with the greatest pleasure. So far as party an party organization is concerned, where matter of constitutional right are involved, I canno consent to admit the claim. Now I want to sim plify the argument, and hope the gentleman will listen while I present a few very simple remarks. Now, the proposition before the Senate is tha a voter shall go before a county court or som authority and make an oath prescribed. I propose now to inquire into the power we have t do that independent of the expatriation law Now, sir, I held that the Constitution prescrib what qualifications a voter shall have. He must be a white man and a resident of the State and twenty-one years old, &c. Now, sir, ever clizen who possesses the qualifications prescrid by law, has a constitutional right to vote, an whenever you attempt by statute to abridge the Mr. Helm-I have listened to the gentle citizen who possesses the qualifications prescribed by law, has a constitutional right to vote, and whenever you attempt by statute to abridge the qualifications you create an entirely new condition upon which can be made to depend his right to vote. You abridge the constitution proposition to the effect that before any voter in the State of Kentucky shall be cutilled to that privilege he shall go before some anthority and take an oath, I suppose that the conditions of citizenship laid down in the Constitution being complied with I have a right to vote, I being a white man twenty-one years of age, and having resided in the State two years, and sixty days in the precinct. It is an imposition extra to that made by the Constitution. Now, I ask the attention of Senators. Citizenship is a question for the General Government to regulate. It declares that all foreigners who came into this country shall renounce their allegiance to any there or extention. Then he takes the out-of-

for the General Government to regulate. It de-clares that all foreigners who come into this country shall renounce their allegiance to any sing or potentate. Then he takes the oath of allegiance, and thus passing from one to an-other, he becomes a citizen of the United States. Then residence regulates how he shall vote, Then question is, were those citizens who joined the Confederate army citizens of a foreign coun-try after that act? How are you prepared to extend that principle? Was the Confederate citizen a foreigner? Did he belong to a distinct nation? and have they as such been conquered? This is a question which this day disturbs the whole country. The President and Congress differ upon it. I maintain that this was not a foreign country, that the States called "Confederate States" are not out of the Union, and have not been out, and all they did not lose their citizen-ship. Their arms are grounded, and they are citizens in this nation, entitled to all the rights and privileges of the States, and where you at-tempt to reverse this you produce a revolution that will shake the country from one end to the other. I am unwilling to place the State in an attitude which implies that these States were a foreign nation, and that becomes necessary in until the Court of Appeals shall determine whether the law is constitutional er not. And, if it shall determine that this law is constitutional, that you can expatriate the citizen, I will go with him so far as to make them all take the oath.

Now, with regard to the guerrilla. The guerrilla is not a Confederate soldier. We know that by all the rules that govern men or nations. He never was sworn into the Confederate arm; but, sir, could you have excluded the guerrilla from the polls? He might have been secured by society, but he could not be excluded by the terms of this law. It is viewed as a rule of parliamentary law that the enemies of mediately responsible to the people, and knowing their wishes, has passed this bill repealing the law entirely. An amendment similar to this we are now considering was before that body, and was rejected. Let us go for the repeal of the whole bill, and then, if the Court of Appeals say that the basis for this law is right, then a law can be made that will be less objectionable. The President makes his proclamation of pardon. He says you have committed treason. I grant you an amnesty. Men submit to the amnesty, and take the oath, Then suppose men attempt to exercise the rights of citizenship. He is taid: Your amnesty comes from the General Government. It is to determine your relations with the General Government. You are under the ban of Kantucky now, and this amnesty does not affect your obligations to the State." I know, sit, that we are necessionally taunted with not being that we are occasionally tausted with not being true to the Union. I think I am. I had rether he a freeman in Kentucky than a palace slave in any other land. I am for the freedom of America, that American liberty which accords with the principles laid down in our great. Ark of Liberty, the Constitution. I am for the Union of the States, heart and hand, soul and body, as much as any man that lives. I am for it in that purity and integrity of purpose marked out by that Constitution which was made by the wisest heads that have ever lived. What does liberty consist in? It consis's in the Government throwing its arms around the citizen and resisting any encroachments upon the freedom of his mind or acts.

Mr. Landium—I, sir, have but a word to say on the legal proposition that has been argued so ably by the Senator from Hardin. I believe there is no difference between us. But, sir, we look at this question in a very different light. I believe that the superstructure built by thing is that it is better to have the case decided by the courts before any legislation is had, and to repeal the law so as to leave the question free. Is this argument conclusive. If it is constitutional to repeal the law, it is constitutional to repeal the law, it is constitutional to repeal the law, it is constitutional to tional to repeal the law, it is constitutional to amend it so as so do away with its objectionable features. I build no superstructure upon the original law but upon the repeal of it, so that his argument is only an argument for me and against himself the Senator is wrong in another regard. The Constitution of the United States says that Congress shall make all laws in relation to the naturalization of citizens. A man must be a citizen of the United States to be qualified to exercise the right of suffrage, but the States have the right to make laws in their own limits as to the time he must reside in the State and other qualifications. A man has a right to vote after twelve months' residence in some of the States in the Union.

GERMAN LABOR -The first installment of German laborers for the Valley of Virginia arrived in Alexandria on Saturday. The Ga-

rette says:

They have been engaged by Colonel John Fairfax, of Loudon, who intends thoroughly to test this, to our people, new species of labor. It is said his example will soon be followed by meny of the farmers in the Piedmont District. In the lower counties, where the new system has been introduced, it is said that the result is satisfactory, and Messrs Wilmer and Washington, the agents here for German emigrants, are receiving frequent orders from the upper and lower counties, and, as the freedmen have become uncertain, it is not improbable that white labor will entirely supplant the negro in this abor will entirely supplant the negro in this ection of Virginia.

A Reminiscence —We find the following in the Nashville Banner:

On Monday evening succeeding the Baltimore Convention of 1860, a great concourse of people gathered in front of the residence of John C. Breckinridge at Washington. He had been nominated for President by a portion of his party, which had seceded from the main body thereof, and the collection to which we allude was assembled for the purp se of receiving his acknowledgments. In the course of the evening speeches were made by Mr. Toombs, Mr. Davis, and Mr. Yancey. Toward the close Mr. Ben. F. Butler, a secessionist from Massachusetts, was called for, and spoke for half an hour more violently in favor of Southern rights than any of his predecessors. As he concluded his harangue, the writer of this brief reminiscence turned to Andrew Johnson, who happened to A REMINISCENCE -We find the following in

THE FENIAN FUNDS.—From facts which have come into our possession we believe we are justified in making the following statement with reference to the finances of the Fenian Brotherhood:

A company with a capital of $100,000 has been formed for the cultivation of grapes in Mifflia county, Ohio. They expect to realize large profits.

C. of the Bureau of Refugees and Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, says: As there seems to be some misapprehension with regard to the mission of Mrs. Josephine Griffing, the Commiscioners direct me to say she was discharged as agent of this Bureau Nov. 7th, 1865. The Bureau has not received any funds from Mrs. Griffing, and does not assume the responsibility of the collections she is making.

The number of actual dependents upon G-wernment for support through this Bureau in Washington is between three and four hundred. Many are poor but have managed this far to take care of themselves, receiving now and then temporary relief.

The Tritune's Washington dispatch contains the following:

Owing to the insufficiency of the force of revenue officers employed on the Canadian frontier for the collection of customs, smuggling is still carried on to a considerable extent along the boundary.

The Commissioner of Customs to-day received several communications from officers stationed on the St. Lawrence, all of whom complain of a lack of force to thoroughly execute the revenue laws. The Herald's Savannah correspondent of the Sth says that the late city election was conducted with great quictness. Affairs in the country is represented as bare of provisions, and the roads nearly impassable. It is extremely difficult to induce negroes to labor for any length of time continuously, and both they and the whites are indulging freely in extensive marauding, thieving, and other vices.

With the professed purpose of restoring order bands of self-styled regulators have been formed, who are guilty of more crimes than those they pretend to be engaged in suppressing. Their shootings and hangings of negroes, are of such common occurrence as scarcely to excite remark.

A Washington special dispatch to the Tribune says: A large gathering of citizens of Osio convened in the Sanate lobby sesterday at 3 o'clock, with Chief Justice Chase in the chair. General Schenck, in a few eloquent remarks touching the character of the deceased, moved the appointment by the Chair of a committee of five to draft resolutions embodying the sentiments of his fellow-citizens of Ohio. Mr. Chase moved that General Schenck, Governor Denvison, Senstor Sherman, General Hughes, and Representative Spaulding as such committee, who reported the following:

Resolved. That we have heard with deepest sorrow of the death of Thomas Corwin, of Ohio, a man whose eminent abilities as a statesman in all the various positions of Legislature. Governor of his State, Cabinet Minister, and diplomatist, whose surpassing eloquence, and whose great services to the Government and people, secured for him a reputation broad as the whole country, while his personal worth and character endeared him to all who ever enjoyed his society or his friendship.

Resolved, That from a sincere desire to show by mark of respect due to his memory we will attend his funeral obsequies, accompanying his remains when removed for conveyance to his home at such time as may be appointed.

Resolved, That a committee of five citizens be appointed by the Chairman to make suitable arrangements for the occasion.

about this being a different case. The iss the impeachment. But that outside presre and the excitement produced thereby had such occasions. The Mayor, as well as the gentlemen of the Council, was the guardian of the city, and any man, under the solemn oath of office, as the Mayor was, who should have failed to carry into execution his sworn duty, would have been recreant to the public trust, unworthy the respect of the meanest around him, and guilty of that damnable crime, perjury. It is sought to construe the high-toned, honorable, and is tistful course of our venerable Mayor into that dastardly crime. If he has committed a crime, it is one of which he may justly be proud. No man is bound to obey a mandate to carry out fraud. If Mayor Tomppert had failed to perform his duty in exposing the hideous frauds which have come to light in this court, he would have deserved the contempt, the scorn of all true men. The General hoped to God the accused Councilman would have an opportunity to clear himself of the foul stain. He contended that the fraudulent votes that and been cast in the Council had no legal efficient, whatever. The Mayor, while his associates in the cause of public guardianship were being containated by the hand of bribery, scorned the corrupting influence, and frowned with just indignation upon the base prostitution of the city's honor. He nobly placed himself as a breakwater between the coord name of Louisville and the ville machlianting the presiding officer. That being the case, whenever a contract is entered into or proposed of and the matter citemissed, with the case might have been disposed of and the matter citemissed, with the case might have been disposed of and the matter citemissed, with the case might have been disposed of and the matter citemissed, with the case that they donal the there is that lack of law to maintain this case that they was it not done? How the have you believe? They seem to forget, but the same titered, but they cannot forget, but the same titered into the president principles of law. Now I assert, gentlemen, that approposition, it thereby becomes a contract, as a party to do anything, and emen of the Council, was the guardian of the Ward said he did not wish to reflect upon the bartnes against whom charges of orbory has been preferred. He did not desire to misrepresent them; but the facts must be examined. And after, having heard the facts, he was as fully convinced that fraud had been practiced as if he had witnessed the transactions from beginning to end. Here is the case of a man who, when openly and directly charged with having been corrupted, made no deniat of it, but, on the contrary, tried to justify his baseness. Mayor Tomppert rearlessly and duteously instituted an investigation of this villainy, notwithstanding the bloodhounds were upon his trail. What are the duties of the Mayor? If the charter of your municipal existence limits those duties, you cannot go beyond that limit in defining them. He is amenable to the laws and ordinated the contract, although the ordinance upon its face was not a resolution. The charter is silent upon the subject as to who shall execute the contract. You must look at the legislature here; they did not put the word resolution into the act; it was inadvertently left. the Legislature here; they did not put the word resolution into the act; it was inadvertently left out.

Now, let us look and see how that law is construed. I read from Tell on select cases, to show that the duty of the officer was to sign the contract under seal. General Ward here read a quotation in explanation of his remarks. them. He is amenable to the laws and ordi-ances. The duties thus pointed out, and none other, devolve upon the Mayor. There is imposing upon the Mayor any such duty as duties can be imposed upon him by mere resosubject of law making power, and assailed the ity that body had for making up a record after the expiration of six or eight weeks, giving vatore. All this illegitimacy has transpired, and yet it is contended that it carries with it no crime. The charter requires you to keep a re-cord the same as those regulating all other legislative bodies. By that charter, you have no ower to enforce any law, ordinance, or mothe until the same is published. You can pre-sume nothing; all must be proven, directly proven. The resolution or motion of impeach-ment was not recorded. The charter was vio-Most certainly not. Do you know the condition, that no ordinance shall be valid until it shall have been published? It is not the case that resolution authorizes you to carry on the work. Whenever you want the money you must publish the ordinance to have that part of the job done. I will read Kent's Commentarise on the Power of Making Contracts.

I don't intend to say that this Council authorized him to make a contract and affix the seal.
I was pointing out that you can do it. When you employ an agent, he don't have to make the contract under seal. But if you do not employ an agent, but leave it with the chief magistrate, he must make the contract, and make it under seal. I will read you some authorities upon that point: Pirtle's Digest, pare 142, and Holcomb's Digest.
Gentlemen, I say now that it never was the purpose of the Legislature to limit the contrac s to be executed by the Mayor, only to those where he was to do it by ordinance. A fair construction of the language shows that it was made to validate such action. If this is to be the precedent, it were better to abolish the office of Recorder and burn up recedure. why is the effort made to dishonor the Mayor? He has never refused to perform justify it, because the interests, the welfare of the city didn't call for it. He done nothing but of a great city whose good name and prospercontract embraced the names of eight of our eight names represented a capital of four or five million of dollars. Mr. Henderson, the only responsible contractor, according to the terms of the document, is worth only about volved in this contract. The privileges of the railway enterprise were to be ceded to all, and the Mayor took it for granted that all were to be held responsible. But the contract, as proposed to be ratified, would release fifteentwentieths of the responsibility. This contract bears a supendous fraud upon its face in addition to that practiced by members of the great and prosperous city—a contract which, I am anxious to believe, no Councilman contemd prosperous city—a contract which, I ous to believe, no Councilman contembraking. It never was their intention to the other parties. You say the Mayor ity of perjury because he would not assuch a contract. He did not rely upon intered rights of the parties, but upon individual responsibility. Mr. Henouly signs for himself. He doesn't to sign for the others. He authority so to do.

can be preferred against the Mayor by a member of the responsibility. In lieu of four or five million dollars security, Mr. Henderson offered one hundred thousand. It was never intended to jeopardize ten millions worth of property on Market street in any such way. It would be a palpable fraud upon the Council and upon all who opposed the railroad project. The idea of such a contract being binding was the greatest absurdity ever heard of. Release Jim Guthrie and retain Isham Henderson as security! Pecuniarily, I wouldn't like to make the exchange.

Mayor Tomppert was undisguised in his opposition to the contract. He believed it injurious, and used all the constitutional means in his power to defeat it. If his conduct can be construed as honorable, it is your duty as sworn indees to a contract. It is it shopporable for The Mayor did not intend to throw away a part | can be preferred against the Mayor by a mem strued as honorable, it is your duty as sworn it. Gentlemen say that you cannot remove the judges to so construe it. Is it dishonorable for a kuman being to do all he can to protect those mus against him. Suppose you adopt a resolu-sion and he refuses to comply with its directions must you apply to the Circuit Court for a man damus. Whenever a resolution comes from the House he has a right to veto it, and if the interests which he is sworn to protect? Is he o be damned and his prospects to be blasted the House he has a right to veto it, and if the resolution is passed over his veto you can make him comply by applying for a mandaunus, and you must be forced to that mode every time. I say it is preposterous; you have that remedy, and though it is a very trying matter for the Mayor to be removed, it does not show that he has committed any crime. As Col. Mundy remarks, that if you remove him from office a stain attaches to him for all time to come, and he invokes your clemency. human heart-adjeu to the safeguards of society. The whole world would condemn such an act. It would be outraging all human law and human feeling. It cannot be done— no tribunal can be found in the universe to do uch an act. The Mayor has not taken one step in this matter for which he does not deserve praise and commendation, and not censure. No court in the country would fail Now look to the other hand—and Col. Mund to justify the action of Mayor Tomppert. The

to justify the action of Mayor Tomppert. The General closed by submitting the case to the court, feeling assured that the members, as upright and impartial judges, would not fail to appreciate the purity of the Mayor's motives, the honesty of his actions, and accord him a speedy and honorable acquittal.

The speech of General Ward occupied one hour and forty minutes. It is due to him to say that we have omitted many of the teling points of his argument. In fact, our sketch points of his argument. In fact, our sketch hardly affords an idea of the real force and elegance of his remarks. The omissions were made necessary by the rapid delivery of the speaker as well as our want of a short-hand to remove him unless you are satisfied that these charges are sustained by the proof, I say in God's name do not find him not guilty, no matter what the consequence are to the Common Council. The question in volved is as to the wilful intent of the Mayor in rot significant. At the conclusion of General Ward's argu ment, Robert J. Elliott, Assistant City Attorney, commenced his response for the prosecution. His argument was continued until half-past five o'clock, at which time the Board adjourned to met again at ten o'clock this morning. Mr. Elliott will then finish his argument. and the case will be ready for decision. the one before us. Gen. Ward called the give below a report of the unfinished speech:

give below a report of the unfinished speech:

ARGUMENT OF MR. ELLIOTT.

May it please the court, the privilege was graciously extended to me yesterday to amend the indictment in this case, and for reasons which I deemed proper I declined to take advantage of the offer. I, however, wish to reciprocate the favor, and now ask that the record be corrected. I do not suppose that it was so intended, but I consider it a direct insult to the Council. The record reads: "We now believe that if we had signed the contract, that it would involve the city in litigation—and the designs jof the Council would have been effected."

Mr. Ward remarked that the word effected should read defeated, and the word was corrected so as to read defeated.

Mr. Elliott. Gentlemen, you have watted here patiently to this time, and I suppose are very much fatigued. I don't know that I will have much to say, but more, probably, than I are to the Common Council. The question in volved is as to the wilful intent of the Mayor in rot signing the contract. I don't think, gentlemen, that you can be influenced at all by what has been published in these papers. It seems to me very amiss for any demonstration to have been made. It argues one thing, that this public assembly was got up for the purpose of forestalling public opinion, and probably intimidating the Board of Aldermen trom giving a proper investigation of the case.

Colonel Mundy here remarked: When the public meeting was called both he and Mr. Barrett were called upon in regard to it, and we both-advised not to have ft. We thought it inadvisable, injudicious, and incautious, and also that a wrong interpretation would be given to it. I say this in justice to myself and Mr. Barrett, and Mayor Tomppert. I take occasion to say that I would not harm, one hair of his head. Personally we are friends. We have long been associated together, and there has not been the first unkind feeling on the part of either. There is no hostility against him on my part in this case, but it has been made my duty to prosecute in this case, and I intend not to leave one stone unturned in the case while doing my duty. I mean to do my duty to Mr. Tomppert and also my duty to the Common Council, and I will not swerve to the right or left in the discharge of it. should have said, if it had not been for the course pursued by the counsel for the defense. The whole question in the case is upon the intention of the Mayor. There have been a great many side issues offered here; and, if the opposition have been so confident of success, it seems to me that they might have avoided all this. If the pleadings are defective and they could have taken advantage of them and have had the matter dismissed, wify tire themselves and you, if the case might have been disposed of and the matter ended at one fell swoop? Why Twelfth street and Portland, on the avenu

Ward here read a quotation in explanation of his remarks.

Mr. Elliott—I take occasion here to say that I announced to Mr. Barrett, who was the only counsel that was known in the case to me at the time, the points I intended to raly upon, so that he might have a plain knowledge of the points I intended to take, I furnished Mr. Barrett with a list of all the authorities that I intended to raly upon, but I will make the remark, that, in the course of the remarks by the counsel, these gentlemen have asserted things which I have prepared myself with certain authorities to meet. I don't think it necessary to give them a notice of them: if they have any where he was to do it by ordinance. A fair construction of the language shows that it was not the purpose of the Legislature to do it in that way. But abandoning that position, throwing it away altogether. Suppose that alt that had been left out of the charter, every identical word, in reference to the duties of the Mayor, then of course his duty would be as the common law prescribes; there is nothing to in-teriere with his duties. I will read the first section of the charter.

Now, when the power here is given to contract and have a seal, who is to use that seal but the Mayor himself, because that is common law doctrine, and even if that were not referred to at all, it would be the duty of the Mayor to do it. It is not necessary for the charter to sifts the acts of the Mayor to the resolution. It may be proper to notice some of the propositions as to your power to try the Mayor, but before doing so, I might remark that these gentlemen have given a great deal more importance to this than it really merits. They call it an impeachment, an impeachment implies crime. The gentleman says that it is proper to refer to the constitution of the State showing what is an impeachment. It is shown there that this is not the character of oute, and that some enterprising gentleman is about to open an eating-house at the cross roads, at which the trains will stop twenty minutes to enable the passengers to take re freshments. These new arrangements have been entered into on a count of the complaint of passengers on the Main street route not making close connections with the avenue route after dark. Mr. Wade, from the Committee on Territo ice, reported favorably on a bill to give th ousent of Congress to the annexation of Back ey and Jefferson counties, Va., to the State of consent of Congress to the annexation of Backley and Jefferson counties, Va., to the State of West Virginia.

Mr. Morrill, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported favorably on the bill to regulate elective franchise in the District of Columbia, with amendments, one of which modifies the privilege by restricting it to those who shall be able to read the Constitution of the United States in the English language and write his name. A new section is inserted prescribing a penalty of $5 000 and imprisonment not exceeding one year for wilfully rejecting or refusing to receive the vote of any person entitled to that right.

Mr. Wilson called up the Senate bill to maintain the freedom of the inhabitants of States declared in insurrection and rebellion by the proclamation of the President of July 1, 1862, it abolished all laws, statutes, acts, ordinances, rules or regulations, which make inequalities in r ghts and immunities on account of distinctions differences of rule, race, or color.

Nr. Summer—When I think of what occurre Mr. Sumner—When I think of what occurred in this chamber yesterday—when I call to mind the attempt to whitewash the unhappy condition of the rebel States—I feel as if I ought to speak of nothing else to-day. Sir, I stood here long ago, in the days of Kansas, when a small community was surrendered to the machination of slave master, and now I stand here, alsel while an immense region of country, with its millions of population, is surrendered to the machination of slave master. It belongs to Congress to arrest this fatal fury, Congress to arrest this fatal fury, Congress must learn to be brave and to be just. But I am not willing to be diverted from the previous question before, the Senate, although I shall naturally and legally pass in review the condition of the rebel States. The chair suggested that the queetion before the Senate was rested that the question before the Senate was he motion to refer the bill to the Judiciary lommittee, and on this motion a discussion was not in order of the marite of the Committee, and on this motion a discussion was not in order of the merits of the bill.

Mr. Trumbull suggested that Mr. Sumner be permitted to proceed. No objection being offered, Mr. Sumner continued:

The Senate must all agree it was an excellent measure. It undertakes nothing more than the assurance of equality before the law, which it is assumed is essential to carry forward and maintain the proclamation of empacipation to which assumed is essential to carry forward tain the proclamation of emancipation the national government is pledged. the national government is pledged.

The words of the proclamation no one can forget. They read that the slaves shall from this time henceforth be free, and the Executive, with the military and naval authorities, shall maintain them in their freedom. This is your pledge which has gone before the world. It goes wherever the limits of your Republic extends, and it is as sacred as your National life. Wherever that fing floats, as long as this Republic endures, that pledge is surely to be observed. ic endures, that pledge is surely to be observed low shall we see that this pledge is preserved

How shall we see that this pledge is preserved? Is it to be committed to the States? No sit. The preservation of that pledge must be by the National Government which made it, which gave freedom and solemnly promised to maintain that freedom.

Mr. Summer read a number of extracts from Southern correspondents of the Boston Advertiser and other papers and from private letters received by him from reliable parties in the South to show the disloyal sentiment of the Southern people and the cruelty with which the freedmen are being treated in the late rebellious States. In conclusion he called upon the Senste to pass this bill or any other bill calculated to secure justice for the freedmen.

Mr. Saulsbury wished to make one remark. There seemed to be an apprehension in some here seemed to be an apprehension in socuriers that the Democratic party was ago quarters that the Democratic party was again to come to power through the present Executive. There was already an opposition party springing from the ranks of the Republicans. He would say to the President that he ought to stand firm by this policy, and, if he continued in that policy, two millions of faithful men in the North would support him, although they did not yote for him, and would welcome the contest whenever it comes.

did not vote for him, and would welcome the contest whenever it comes.

Mr. Cowan was unwilling to let Mr. Sumner's speech go to the country without a protest. The extracts read by him from private letters were not impartial or prejudiced. The cases referred to were exceptional cases. Waere one man out of five hundred was cruel to negrees it was published, but there was nothing said about nincty-nine others who treated the negroes properly.

Mr. Cowan alluded to Mr. Sumner's charge of whitewashing used against the President, and defended the President from it. He read extracts from the message of yesterday, and expressed his belief in its fairness and truth. The further consideration of the bill was postponed until to morrow.

A message was received from the House announcing the death of Mr. Kellogg, a member of the House from New York, and the passage of a resolution of respect for his memory.

Mr. Broomall asked leave to introduce a resolution, which was objected to by Mr. Johnson, is colleague, asserting the termination of the recent civil law has left the lately usurped territory in the hands of the conquering power and without political rights; that the political condition of the people in the late rebellious States must be fixed by the supreme legislative power; that the effect of the amnesty is to relieve individuals of the punishment of crime, but not to confer political rights; that Congress should confer the necessary power to enable them to form their own State governments, but this cannot be done until the rights of those among them always true to their allegiance shall be protected, etc.

that said property may be restored by competent authority to its former owner.

A comparatively insignificant amount of property is used as quarters for teachers and officers connected with the bureau and hospitals. With these exceptions all property in the hands of the bureau is held as a means of revenue by order of the President. The work of restoration has progressed very rapidly, and it is probable that when the war terminates little or no property will remain under the control of the bureau. By this policy of restoration the expectations of the freedmen that the land would be assigned them have been disappointed and a difficulty has arisen thereby, but has been overcome with comparative ease. Much em-

the expectations of the freedmen that the land would be assigned them have been disappointed and a difficulty has arisen thereby, but has been overcome with comparative ease. Much embarrassent and actual suffering has resulted for the restoration of property in use. Much more will result from the curtailment of the bureau. About one five hundredths of the amount of land in the insurrectionary States has even been held and the plan of assigning it to the freedmen has been carried out.

Experience has shown that, as a general rule, it is better to leave the price of labor to be regulated by the demand. Schools have been established, but the hostility of the white people to them is undisgulsed.

Congress when it established the bureau made no appropriation to defray its expenses It has, however, received funds from miscellaneous sources, to the amount of $478,363. Deducting the amount held as retained bounties, leaves $115,286. The amount held as retained bounties leaves $115,286. The amount held as retained bounties and their families.

The breaking up of the old plantation system has necessarily left, the sick with little or no medical provision. As soon as they earn money and become better versed than now in the order of self-support, they will doubtless secure the necessary aid.

From information derived from the various reports of military officers, inspectors and assistant commissioners, Gen. Howard arrives at the general conclusion that free labor, notwith-standing the sudden emancipation, and the thousands of causes of disturbance incident to the war, will prove successful; that the Freedmen's Bureau, er some substitute of it for a national character, will have to be continued, and that the present organization of the bureau, with the understanding that it is not to be permanent, is as good as he could suggest, except as to the subject of a freedmen's court and the employ ment of civil agenties.

Some general system for providing for the seed and infirm is necessary, and it would be well to devote funds ra the freedmen for securing sites and buildings for school purposes in the different States, and that joint companies, whose objects all be to aid the poor blacks and whites it has contained to the contained the co shall be to aid the poor blocks and whites in the rental, purchase, and settlement of land, should be encouraged by the Government, and that the rights of the freedmen to rent and pur-chase real property should be guaranteed to them beyond question. It is estimated that the amount requisite for the expenditures of the Bureau for the fiscal year commencing January, 1866, will be $1,174,-505.

ā. The Commercial's Washington dispatch says

The Commercial's Washington dispatch says the President's action in restoring to the Southern States which have adopted the amendment the enjoyment of all their constitutional privileges, except representation in Congress, paralyses the action of the radical republicans, and produces an intense interest. An exciting contest may be expected, however, between some of the radicals and conservative supporters of the President.

THE CONDITIONS OF LONGEVITY .- We have seen the story, but cannot youch for the truth Germany some years since the habits of every some had, and others had not, used tobacco and spirits, but all had been early risers. As we have said, we do not know whether the census we have noticed in all the accounts of very aged their subjects rose early. James McCormick, a native of Ireland, who died on the 11th of November, at Newburg, New York, aged 114 years and 3 months, was no exception to the ule. He often went to work before daybreak. When young he was a great walker, having once traveled on foot a distance of fifty-two miles in thirteen hours. He married at the age of forty-five, and had fourteen children, ninof whom lived to emigrate with him to this were curious. We quote the following from a biographical sketch:

It was the custom in his days, as well as in ours, when farmers worked in the field to take a pall of water or some other beverage along with them to quench thirst, but he once stated that no matter how hard he worked he never experienced thirst as others did. He drask very little water or any finld, and at his meals was accustomed to seasom food so highly with east that no one but himself could eat it, and fered them to fall out of their own accord. At the time of his death he had only four teeth left. His eyesight for two years previous to his death commenced to decline, and when dissolution occurred he was almost blind. His hair never turned gray. He was a rebel in the Irish rebellion of 1798, and was wounded in the left leg. His invariable answer to the ques-tion which he thought, more than anything else, caused him to live so long, was temperance, exercise, plain food, regular meals, and regular hours in going to bed and getting up. We find by this account that Mr. McCor-mick was fruggl in his habits. So was Thomas mick was frugal in his habits. So was Thomas

dred and fifty-two by being taken to the British Court and fed on a luxurious diet, to which he was unaccustomed. We are not informed specially as to the time Parr got up, but, as in | Gotton Plantations to Rent or Sell. Temperate living is undoubtedly conducive to longevity, yet there are rare exceptions in which notorious drunkards lived to a remarkable age. dier, who wandered about the New England most constantly intoxicated, yet lived to enter may have survived in spite of his habits, how ever-not because of them. A singular case was that of a prominent phy sician of the Eastern States, who survived to his one hundred and second year. The old gentleman was very conservative, indulging after rum, cider, and sugar, of about the strength of tion. He at last died ouite suddenly, and, hav examination of his body was made. Most of his internal organs were found in a sound and healthy condition, revealing nothing that should have prevented his living a quarter of a century longer; but the cause of his death was discovered to be a thickening of some of the alimenta could be traceable to no cause but the rum mixture. In fact the old gentleman's modera potations had done the same work in sixty o are wont to effect in a sixth of that period. Centenarians are rare birds, and watching or copyists than did the possession of the crow to the Greek tool, who, hearing that the bird the truth. Still, their remains the general deimitating their modes of life will with no mo certainty give great length of days to their lived a century, bought one to see if such were sufficient but not excessive work, and a cheer those to follow who wish to live out not on solemn protest of the United States Minister at foreign powers in the capital of Chili, against the threatened bombardment and attempted bleckade of Chilian ports by Admiral Pareja, having been followed by indignant remon-strances of the leading English and French merchants, and of their respective governments, Marshal O'Donnell, the Prime Minister of Queen Isabella, has, according to the latest accounts, Isabella, has, according to the latest accounts, shown a very proper respect for the outrages to the feelings of mankind by ordering the Span ish commander and plenipotentiary in Chili to stay all hostile proceedings. The successful establishment of Vice-President Canzeco's government at Lims, followed by the ignominious retreat of O'Donnell's pliant tool, President Peret, as well as the recent publications of Senor Asto-Burnaga, the Chilian Minister at Washington. Burnags, the Chillian Minister at Washington, and the spirited demonstration in New York in favor of Chill, on occasion of the speeches delivered there at the Travelers' Club and at Delmonico's by Senor MacKenna, the special en-voy of Chill, will no doubt contribute to set public opinion still more decidedly against the encroschments of Spain or other at Madrid as at Santiago, Lima, and Washingon. In this country especially a genuine syn pathy for Spain will make all the friends of Oncen Isabella's government naturally desirou to see that beautiful country abandon the fatal path of aggression abroad, and devote itsel altogether to financial and political reform at

The policy of diverting the people's attention from the progress of liberal ideas at home by quixotic expeditions against foreign countrieis not working well in Louis Napoleon's empire and is not at all likely to commend itself fo emulation to that of her most Catholic Majesty

If, after a thorough administrative, financial and political reform, Spain should be ambitious of making further strides in the way of progress, there is ample work for her statesmen and Christian patriots in the abolition of slavery in Cuba and in other Spanish colonies. This would be far better and wiser than wasting lives and treasure, and sacrificing the friendship of the United States and all other American republica in a hopeless effort to regain a trans-Atlantic prestige, which is vanishing even in the Antilles, and which in all other parts of the American continent has departed forever.
